

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

According to the present invention, in an education training management system, a computer for use in training management, a terminal for a trainee, a terminal for a manager, an education training management method and an education training method, the computer for use in training management comprises aggregate storing means for aggregating received lecture information and for storing the aggregate result, the terminal for a manager comprises reading means for accessing the computer for use in training management to read the aggregate result. As a result, managers easily can read lecture information of a trainee from a remote location, and can give appropriate instruction to the trainee depending on the level of understanding and the progress status of the trainee, which is obtained from the computer for use in training management.